Potential Historic Structures

The table below contains information on the 38 potential historic structures located in the SR 400 study area. This information was obtained primarily from the Natural, Archaeological, and Historical Resources GIS (NAHRGIS), the registry designed to catalog information about the natural, archaeological, and historical resources of Georgia. The table includes the NARHGIS ID (if applicable), street location, county, and structure type. Three observed potential historic structures are not registered in NARHGIS and are therefore identified with a NARHGIS ID of "N/A".

As mentioned in the body of the report, these potential historic structures must be examined further by an historical resources professional in order to verify the data in NAHRGIS and observations made during windshield surveys.
